From Our Co-Presidents

Job Description – Positions vacant:

President: We have made this job a lot easier and basically only the chairperson for the board. The president does not organise or run the weekly meetings. The weekly announcements & district announcements will normally come from the president.

President elect: Basically a support role for the president and a learning position in preparation for the following year. It is really important that this position is filled as it will give everybody a sense of confidence and certainty moving forward.

Secretary: The secretary is responsible for incoming / outgoing mail or email as well as communications with other Rotary entities. Writing and distribution of board minutes. This is an administrative role coordinating our club with Rotary and other organisations. An important role that any member can do.

Membership / Fellowship / Vocation & Youth / Community Service

These positions are basically the team leader of their respective committees to coordinate the ideas and potential projects that might arise out of committee meetings. It is intended that past chairpersons be appointed to the relative committee for the purpose of continuity. There should always be a deputy chairperson on all committees.

Bulletin Editor:

Potentially a job requiring copy and paste skills to produce an interesting & informative weekly newsletter. It is intended that a lot of members info currently displayed in the Bulletin will be transferred to the new website.

Please consider your role as a club member. These positions will not be filled unless you step up. Please do not rely on someone else to volunteer. It is your job to volunteer.

Norm :- Norm is now receiving visitors Room 221 on second floor of Glenrose Court home @ Portrush rd Glen Osbourne. You do not need to ring ahead.

Co President

Guest Speaker 22 November 2022

The truth behind the ditching of DC-3, VH-EDC in Botany Bay that saved 25 lives

On 24 April 1994, long before Sully became famous for ditching a plane into the Hudson River, 25 passengers were saved when a pilot decided to ditch a DC-3 aircraft into Botany Bay after encountering problems just seconds after taking off from Sydney Airport.

Retired pilot Rod Lovell gives a candid account of why he chose to ditch the aircraft and how he had just 46 seconds to make a decision that changed his life forever.

He was hailed as a hero by the community but stripped of his honour by authorities.

Copies available at www.fromherotozero.com.au.

Born at Victor Harbour (ha ha) in 1949, raised on his parents mixed farm at Middleton. After leaving VHHS Rod joined the RAAF in 1968 and qualified as an instrument fitter in 1971. At the same time he was selected to undergo pilot training and graduated #80 Pilots Course in 1972.

He went on to fly supersonic Mirage aircraft and then Orion aircraft, based at Edinburgh. In 1978 he left the RAAF to transfer to civil aviation. In the course of that, he flew Argosy's, DC-3s and DC-9s. Also corporate jets, Citation and Learjets, plus numerous light twin engined aircraft. At one stage, Rod owned a Tiger Moth, Beech 18 and Piper Aztec.

In 1994, whilst conducting a charter in a DC-3, suffered an engine failure on take-off at Sydney and 46 seconds later ditched the aircraft saving the lives of all 25 souls on board. The Civil Aviation Authority thanked him by suspending his licence and for the last 28 years has been writing a book and fighting for vindication.
